ITALY'S GAME.

Italy has played the game skillitely, and fairly, and is still very much in the ring, but shipping difficulties have brought about an embarrassing situation. Recently conditions have improved considerably, but they are still bad enough to cause a certain amount of unrest. Italy's aims in this war have been dearly defined, however, and she intends to stick until they are realised.

Three thousand more prisoners and twenty-two machine guns have been captured by the invaders, bringing the number of men taken in the Rimnik-Sarat maneuver up to 10,220. Although Berlin reports the Teutonic Allies in Dobrudja are keeping up their pressure against the Russians and Rumanians and have forced the Russians from fortified height positions east of Matchin, on the east bank of the Danbue opposite Brails, Petrograd announces that the invaders south of the Danube have been repulsed with heavy losses, except at the village of Rakel, which has been occupied by them.

It is becoming increasingly clear that while Wilson's Mexican policy is "manana," the Mexican for tomorrow. Carranza's American policy is "manana," the Mexican for tomorrow. Carranza has sent a note to Mr. Wilson, but he has not signed the Atlantic City protocol. He wants the Pershing expedition to leave Mexico before he signs anything. Carransa holds his government is doing all it humanly can to restore order in the north and it will continue to do so, but the presence of the American troops on Maxican soil is making the task more difficult by giving Villa and his lieutenants a protest for urging the disaffected to join him in his fight against Carransa.

Victims of the wild horse transactions testifying for the government said the horses were represented to them worth $90 a head on the market. They traded for them, they said, because they desired to convert real property or other holdings into cash. The defendants declared they actually lost money in buying and selling wild horses because purchasers frequently traded them property that was valueless, or in which they had no interest. The defense attempted to show there were "thousands and thousands of wild horses" on the Coconine range, but admitted "they were wild and it was expensive to catch them."

[EX A. P. Night Wife.]

OSSIPEE (N. H.) Dec. 28.—Incidents designed to show that Frederick L. Small, a formor Boston broker, used harsh and profune language to his wife, Florence Arlines Small, for whose murder he is on trial, were relisted in the testimony of several witnesses today.

Philip L. Davis, formerly employed on jobs by the defendant, said that on one occasion, when Mr. and Mrs. Small were raising a flagpole, Mrs. Small loosened a rope, in accordance with her husband's directions, when the pole fell. Small then kicked his wife, swore at her and ordered her into the house when she tried to explain, saying to her: "We'll settle that later."

Mrs. Mary E. Conner, wife of the local High School principal, said Small addressed profane language to his wife on one occasion because she could not steer his motorboat with a cord that he had arranged.

Miss Helen Conner said when she complimented Small on his wife's cooking, he replied that sometimes he had "to take the ax to her."

GERMANY'S VIEWS.

The views of the German government further are represented as being as follows:

"If the Entente considers that guarantees for the future are the principal elements to be achieved, and, lacking confidence in the German government, insists upon knowing something to give, the Berlin government might make some declaration regarding the principles to which she is willing to subscribe, leaving details for settlement at the proposed conference. The German government considers there is but little to be gained by going into any lengthy discussion of guarantees for the future with the present war in progress. In this connection, Germany, it is asserted, never has intended that the conference suggested should result immediately in the establishment of peace; it is considered it will be of a preliminary nature to determine whether it might not be possible to end the war."

That part of the skin where the sensation of heat and cold is located reflects the temperature of the surroundings, according to the habits of different individuals. So that Arctic explorers would feel the heat of a stokehold terribly, while a stoker would be unable to bear exposure to wind and snow.

When you are afraid you become feverish. The blood rushes to the surface of the skin, giving off a great deal of heat.

"The glow and warmth" felt by those who drink not wisely, but too well, who believe they are hot, is a dangerous sign, for it shows that the blood heat must be below the normal.

THE BRAYLESS MULE IS AIDING ALLIES.

[A. P. FORMEN COMMISSIONER.]
PARIS, Dec. 26.—The brayless mule is one of the scientific developments of the war. Large numbers of mules have been imported from America for use at the front, but their habit of braying at inconvenient moments had to be remedied before they could be used to the best advantage. The veterinary experts were called in, and, after a little experiment, they discovered that a slight operation on the nestril had the desired effect, and all the mules sant to the front are now made mute by this process.

STUDIED IN GERMANY.

Like most Greeks of the period immediately following the rule of King Otho, Spyridon Lambros studied in Germany, passing his doctorate at Leipzig in 1873. For several years he pursued special historical studies at Oxford, Cambridge, the British Museum and the University of Paris, as well as in Italy and Germany. In 1882, on his return to Athens, he was charged by Premier Trikoupis with the reorganization of the system of primary education and twas finally appointed professor of history in the National University at Athens in 1887. He was never the tutor of King Constantine, as has been stated, and only came into contact with the present Greek sovereign in 1886, when the late King George made him Secretary-General of the Olympic Games Committee.

Premier Lambros's only previous political experience was in 1912-1913, when he was sent to Italy upon a special mission connected with the Italian claims to North Epirus. He also followed the work of the International Committee for the delimitation of the boundaries of North Epirus.

Dr. Lambros is generally one of Greece's representatives at international learned or scientific congresses, at several of which he has presided. He is the author of numerous historical works and the translator of many such works into modern Greek. He speaks English, French, German and

When he reached his room he had enough jewelry for life. Yesterday he started out to dazzle his countrymen. He slipped two of the rings about his necktie. He wore five on one hand and four on the other. He placed a ring everywhere possible but in his ears or his nose.

Detectives Ritch and Roberds were assigned to catch the store burglar. They met the resplendent Tony, who was trying to stupify a girl at a soda fountain by his display of sems. Then he reached in his pocket and pulled out a handkerchief. With it came a ring that fell to the floor.

The detectives acted and Tony went to the Police Station. He confessed and gave up the rings, and now he does not care much whether they send him to jall for ten days or ten years. What's life without rings? he asks.

Judge Finlayson: When the warring nations are prepared to enter into a discussion of peace terms,
Los Angeles would, in my opinion, be a most fitting place for the sitting of the conferees. At least one oriental nation would-be entitled to participate in the conference in this city; it is midway between the Orient and Europe, and an ideal place, so far as climate and geographical considerations are concerned.

Judge Hewitt: In case a peace conference is called I think it would be ideal to call it here, a neutral spot quite removed from the actual scene of the great conflict.

SPURNS MONEY THAT IS BEQUEATHED IT BY WILL.

TAKING the unusual position of trying to break a will under which it was a beneficiary, so that the money can go to the rightful heirs, the Divine Healers' Association of Los Angeles yesterday petitioned the court to set aside the instrument executed by Nicholas J. Steiner, who died at the County Hospital, several weeks ago.

Steiner bequeathed the Divine Healers' Association $4000 out of an estate valued at $6000, and divided the residue among eight friends and acquaintances. FIRED AT RANDOM.

Eleventh Commandment: "Then shalt mind thy own business," concludes with a sarcatic expression of its regret that the United States has never seen fit to protest against the Gragging of Germans from Shat Prunsia, Aliance and other places to Siberia and elsewhere by the Allies in violation of the laws of humanity.

The German naswer says that the measure of deportation was entirely in accord with international law and cites Article 43 of the Hague convention, which requires an invading government to maintain order. This, it asserts, was possible in Belgium only by providing that people who are able to work shall have an opportunity to do so, and shall not fall a burden on charity.

The German note expresses in diplomatic phrase the sincers hope of the Kaiser that the mistaken indignation of the United States at the deportation of Belgians, who are better satisfied with well-fed Industry in Germany than with hungry idlensus in Belgium, will not limit the activities of the American Belgian Relief Commission.

The Times indocrase the latter suggestion of the German government, and at the same time ventures to suggest that Germany might offer to the world an explanation why on October 3, 1916, she fined the Belgian city of Tournay 550,000 for refusing to unpyly a list of men able to work and for the same cause has fined Tournay 55000 a day ever since.

Before deciding as to whether German deportation of Belgians was a shamerdi or a necessary and amiable act, it might be well to take the statement of those who were deported.

United We Stand.

Resuming our peace talk, there is the campaign of Mayor Woodman for a severance of the tie that binds the north and the south. He would have Southern California a State by itself, and Los Angeles the capital thereof. This is no new idea and on the second morning after election the woods were full of men who wanted to start divuoce proceedings at once. The northern and southern parts of our otherwise happy and harmonious State cannot agree on anything—not even on the sesential quantity of rain. The north is for Wilson and Johnson, while Los Angeles is for Hughes and Booth. The north wants boose on the table all the time, while the gouth would be dry as a bons. The south pays the taxes and the north has the officeholders and monayependers. The north double-crossed the south when it was proposed to put State buildings in both Los Angeles kept the gentlemen's agreement and voted for the northe n appropriation, but the frisky Friscans roted for their own but against Los Angeles. There are half a hundred reasons why the south would be in more congenial company if she flocked by herself, but, nevertnelsus, we expect to continue on the old basis. The grand State of California must not be split into two petty halfs States. We cân continue to set a good example and may yet be able to drill some sense into the dodo-domed northerners after while. We never did believe in divorce on mere incompatibility of temper anyhow.

So no more at present.

At the William Penn Hotel tonight Loomis said: "I was petitioned by some of the Pennsylvania players to make a few diagrams on the blackboard at the training house in Philadelphia showing the play of the Oregon-team, and flatly refused and in no way did I tip off the plays of the Oregonians. Besides, my money is on that team to beat Pennsylvania, so why should I aid the latter. The story is unitree."

Farm at $85 a month, the position for which was created in a salary ordinance presented to the Board of Supervisors yesterday, will not be a possibility. Supervisor Woodley moved to amend by striking out the section and his motion was carried by the votes of Supervisor Hinshaw and Chairman Pridham. Supervisors Norton and Hamilton voted against the motion.

Mr. Woodley took the position that the care of the poultry at the County Farm could be left to the superintendent and his employees, and that an expert was an extra expense. Chairman Pridham, who had made observations of poultry culture, expressed similar views. He thought the work could be handled by the men on the County Farm.
